What were your challenges during activity 10.5.1?

1. Limited individual attention; Some teachers Strug to Complete all planned activities within the the available lesson period due to large clas sizes.
2. Some teachers also find it difficult to Co noise and maintain learners attention during class periods.

3. Respectful ; Respecting learners, colleagues, and other members of the school committee and community.

In my opinion, playback helps teaching identify unacceptable behaviours, reflect on their practices and make positive changes that improve their teaching and learners experiences, most especially, to adjust teaching methods and make their lessons more effective.

My reviewed teaching philosophy is centered on learner participation, respect, fairness, patience and professionalism - The discussion with my partner and mentor have helped me appreciate the need to reflect on my teaching practices and make necessary improvements. As a future facilitator, I am committed to creating a supportive learning environment where every learner is encouraged to participate and achieve their full potential.

Identify the similarities and differences between your Year One and reviewed personal teaching philosophy statements and give reasons for the differences

The similarities ~~sto~~ like professionalism, good classroom ~~The differences~~ management, effective lesson planning show that, my STS partner, mentor and I share important beliefs about effective teaching and learning. Discussing these differences helped me develop effective and learner-centered teaching philosophy.
